

I strongly believe that the code requirements should be dropped from amateur radio testing. Morse code is only one of many modes available for the operation of amateur radio and should not be a requirement test. The other modes of operation are not tested and neither should Morse code.

Respectfully

Wilson S. Fickle KC9AWR